

Sport Psychologist of the German National Football Team

Prof. Dr. Hans-Dieter Hermann is the first sport psychologist for Germany's national football team since 2004. He also accompanied the team during the FIFA World Cup in Brazil 2014. Before then, he supervised, among others, the Austrian ski racing team, the German gymnasts, boxers and hockey players.

Together with Prof. Dr. Jan Mayer, he is business executive and owner of Coaching Competence Cooperation Rhein-Neckar, whose emphasis is the optimization of performance qualifications of managers, high performers and teams. Aside from competitive sportsmen and coaches his clients include politicians and top performers in the German economy as well.

As a professor, he teaches both at the University of Applied Sciences in Saarbrücken as well as a honorary professor at the Institute of Sports Sciences at Tübingen University.

For the reporting of the Olympic Games 2012 in London and 2014 in Sochi, Hans-Dieter Hermann worked as a sport psychological expert for the ZDF (second channel of German television broadcasting).

Topics (Selection):

- Success begins in your head - failure too!
- Inspiring Team Leadership - Examples From Sports
- The Foundation of Excellent Teams - Learnings From Sports
- Collaboration and teamwork
- Change leads to success