
LEO MARTIN

Former Member of the Secret Service Coach for Communication Strategies and Body Language

As a former member of the secret service, Leo Martin analyses the behaviour of people from the perspective of a criminal investigator and transfers the important behaviour patterns to situations of leadership, sales and private life.

Leo Martin was born in 1976, studied criminal science and worked ten years for a German secret service. He became one of the most successful secret service members in Germany.

Since 2008 Leo Martin has his own interactive presentation and show programme called “Secret Weapons of Communication”. With his programme he is regularly invited to top-events of leading companies. During his presentations Leo Martin shares his insider knowledge, as the power of persuasion and confidence is crucial for networking, customer loyalty and negotiations.

Being able to read the character of others makes communication more successful and prevents misunderstandings. Being able to read the character of others also means to understand people and situations, to realize impediments early and to have more influence to reach a goal faster. This is what Leo Martin shows in his gripping presentations.