

ANDREAS KUFFNER

Olympic Gold Medallist World Champion

Andreas Kuffner is one of the most successful German rowers. He is an Olympic champion and silver medallist in the German eight.

He was world champion, winner of the Henley Royal Regatta and multiple European champion. He also won eight medals at World Cups, seven of which were gold. In his 16-year sporting career, he was twice awarded the Silberne Lorbeerblatt, the highest sporting award of the Federal Republic of Germany, by the Federal President. With the German eight he also won the election for Team of the Year.

In addition to all his sporting successes, Andreas Kuffner (*11 March 1987 in Vilshofen an der Donau) very successfully completed a master's degree in industrial engineering and trained as a systemic personal & business coach. He is a human relations consultant at fibonacci&friends GmbH and accompanies companies through their transformation processes. He is also active as a personal & business coach and keynote speaker for various companies.

In his impressive and entertaining presentations, Andreas Kuffner shows crucial success factors and gives useful inspiration. In lectures, coaching sessions and workshops, Andreas Kuffner inspires, coaches and accompanies people - whether individually or in a team - as well as companies that want to actively shape change and make "their boat" faster.

Topics (Selection):

- How to speed up the boat
- How to handle setbacks as a team
- How to act motivated as a team