

CLIVE WOODWARD

England's 2003 World Cup Winning Head Coach
Director of Sport Team GB: London 2012, Vancouver 2010,
Beijing 2008
Founder and Chairman - Hive Learning

Sir Clive Woodward is the World Cup winning Head Coach who led England's rugby players to World Cup glory in Australia in 2003. A former England International and British & Irish Lion himself, prior to his full time coaching career Clive established a successful business career working for nine years with Xerox in the UK and Australia before establishing his own small finance and leasing company. During Clive's tenure as Head Coach England moved from 6th in the world to being the number one ranked team, winning every trophy an England team can win.

In 2006 Clive joined the British Olympic Association. As Team GB's Director of Sport he worked in close partnership with key stakeholders in British Sport to support the national coaches and athletes at the Beijing & Vancouver Olympics as well as deliver Team GB's most successful Olympic Games in the modern era at London 2012.

Clive is currently the Founder and Chairman of Hive Learning – an app which has digitised Clive's coaching methods and is designed to improve the quality of learning in business and sport and is the Director of Sport for the APEX2100 International Ski Academy which aims to become the World's Leading High-Performance Academy for young, aspiring athletes wanting to achieve their goals in Alpine Skiing.

Clive also offers Digital Learning programmes on "The DNA of a Champion" which is a live learning platform and community that provides simple, powerful insights and practices that will help any leader, manager, team or individual to improve their performance.

Topics (Selection):

- Leadership, Teamship and Partnership
- Building High Performance Teams
- Creating True Partnerships
- Winning Mindset
- Going 'Beyond Number One'

Publications (Selection):

- Winning!, 2005